Notes

- Declined as plural of 1st/2nd declension adjectives.
- Answers the interrogative "quotēnī", "how many of each?" or "how many at a time?".
- It can mean "so many apiece" or "on each side":
    "singula singulīs" = "one apiece (one each to each one)"
    "septēna iūgera plēbī" = "seven jugera to each citizen (seven jugera each)"
- Can be used in place of a cardinal numeral to express simple number when a noun plural in form but normally singular in meaning is used in a plural sense:
    "bīna castra" = "two camps" ("duo castra" = "two forts")
- Is used in multiplication:
    "bis bīna" = "twice two"
    "ter quīnīs diēbus" = "in three times seven days"
- Can be used in poetry in place of cardinal numerals, especially when talking about pairs or sets:
    "bīna hastīlia" = "two shafts (two in a set)"
